Saudi police launch manhunt for Jeddah cemetery bomber

JEDDAH: Saudi police launched a manhunt on Wednesday after a bomb blast targeted foreign diplomats attending a war memorial ceremony in Jeddah. At least two people were injured when the device exploded at Khawajat cemetery during a speech by the French consul at the event commemorating the annual Armistice Day, which marks the end of the First World War. "At the end of the speech we heard an explosion. We didn't quite understand it at first, but we then realised that we were the target," witness Nadia Chaaya told French television. "We were panicking and feared there could be a second explosion." A Saudi police officer and a Greek policeman who lives in the Kingdom suffered minor injuries from the blast. Saudi security forces immediately

Bahraini Prime Minister Prince Khalifa has died: Royal palace

Bahrain's Prime Minister Prince Khalifa bin Salman al Khalifa has died at the age of 84, the royal palace announced on Wednesday on Twitter. Prince Khalifa, who was one of the world's longest-standing prime ministers, had been receiving treatment at a Mayo Clinic hospital in the United States, the Bahrain News Agency (BNA) reported without specifying what he was being treated for. The burial ceremony will take place in Bahrain once his body arrives in the country and will be limited to a specific number of relatives to prevent the coronavirus from spreading, according to BNA. Prince Khalifa was born on November 24, 1935. The late prime minister assumed his post in 1970, just a year before Bahrain's independence on August 1971.
