Govt Official's Vehicle Hit by Magnetic Bomb in Kabul

A soft-skin SUV carrying an official of the Ministry of Telecommunications and IT was hit by a magnetic bomb in Kabul city this morning, a source said. No deaths have been reported yet. Kabul police in a statement said that the incident happened about 8:37am local time in PD6 of Kabul city after a mine exploded against the ministry's vehicle. "No one was hurt in the blast," it added. This comes a day after gunmen opened fire on a vehicle in Kabul on Sunday, Kabul police reported, and two female judges of the Supreme Court were killed and two other people--the driver and another female--were wounded in the attack, according to the Presidential Palace.

Two UN peacekeepers killed in Central African Republic

Two U.N. peacekeepers were killed in an attack Monday in the Central African Republic, the United Nations said. U.N. spokesman Stephane Dujarric said the peacekeepers came under fire on the Bangasso-Gambo axis. Dujarric said nine U.N. peacekeepers have been killed "in hostile incidents" in the last seven days in Central African Republic and Mali. The mineral-rich Central African Republic has faced deadly inter-religious and inter-communal fighting since 2013, when predominantly Muslim Seleka rebels seized power after long claiming marginalization. Resistance to Seleka rule eventually led to Muslims being targeted en masse, with some beaten to death, mosques destroyed and tens of thousands forced from the capital in 2014...

Marte

The Nigerian army regained control of its military base in Marte, in the northeast of the country on Sunday morning after "intense fighting" with the jihadists of the Islamic State in West Africa (ISWAP). The group claimed responsibility for the attack on Friday evening and still had control of the base on Saturday, before being dislodged by the Nigerian army whose "troops of operation Tura Taka Bango, in coordination with the air force, destroyed seven of the group's militarised trucks, decimated several terrorists and are still in pursuit" of the terrorists — as per an official statement Saturday evening. The terrorists have since left the city — as also did thousands of civilians who fled to Maiduguri, the capital of Borno state which lies # 130 kilometres away.

Waziristan

RAWALPINDI: The military's media wing on Monday said that security forces killed two terrorists and injured one during an intense exchange of fire in South Waziristan. Pakistan security forces conducted an intelligence-based operation in Nargosa area of Waziristan during which two terrorists named Usman Ali and Waheed were killed. Another terrorist was apprehended with severe injuries. The terrorists belonged to the TTP Sajna group and have been identified as Usman Ali and Waheed. The terrorists were IED experts, terrorist trainers and motivators, ISPR said. Terrorist Usman was also involved in the attack on security forces on 14 October 2020 in which Captain Umer Cheema along with two JCOs and three soldiers embraced Shahadat while...

Fighting in Sudan's Darfur region leaves dozens dead

Source

The latest inter-ethnic violence to rock Sudan's restive Darfur region had killed nearly 140 people by Monday, tribal leaders said just weeks after a peacekeeping mission ended operations. Clashes left 55 people dead in South Darfur on Monday, after a separate round of violence in West Darfur reportedly killed 83 and displaced tens of thousands over the weekend. It was the worst violence reported since the signing of a peace agreement in October, which observers had hoped would end years of war. The bloodshed, which appeared not to involve any signatories to the deal, came just over two weeks after the United Nations / African Union peacekeeping force UNAMID ended years of operations. While former rebels have committed to laying down their
