Fire in Jizan .. The Houthis attack Saudi Arabia with booby-trapped...

The Saudi authorities said that a fire broke out on Thursday evening near a floating unloading platform belonging to the petroleum products distribution station in Jizan, south of the Kingdom, and added that it resulted in the destruction of two booby-trapped boats launched by the Houthi group in Yemen. The Saudi authorities confirmed that the fire did not result in any injuries or loss of life, describing it as a "sabotage act affecting maritime navigation and exposing regional waters to major environmental disasters." And earlier on Thursday, Saudi TV said that the Saudi-Emirati coalition had intercepted and destroyed drones launched by the Houthis towards the kingdom.

Two Turkish soldiers killed while planting landmines in Tal Tamer town in Hasaka

Source Syria Times

HASAKSA, (ST)- Two Turkish soldiers were killed on Friday while planting landmines in the areas where they and their affiliated terrorists are positioned in the north of Tal Tamer in the northwest of Hasaka. Russia Today, quoted military sources as saying that the two soldiers were killed when one of the landmines they were planting exploded. The Turkish occupation forces and their mercenaries from the terrorist organizations continuously attack the town of Tal Tamer and the surrounding villages through firing rockets on these areas, displacing the locals, seizing their lands and planting landmines on order to prevent civilians from reaching these lands.

Yemen's rebel-run court sentences 21 to death for spying for Saudi-led coalition

Source NEWS

SANAA, Nov. 14 (Xinhua) -- A court controlled by Yemen's Houthi rebels on Saturday sentenced 21 men to death for allegedly spying for the Saudi-led coalition which backs the Yemeni government, Houthi-run al-Masirah TV reported. Al-Masirah TV did not identify the defendants, but said they are all Yemenis. There was no comment yet from the coalition or the Yemeni government. The ruling by the court in the Houthi-held capital Sanaa was the latest in a series of closed-door trials of political opponents held by the Houthis. Yemen has been mired in civil war since late 2014, when the Iran-backed Houthi group seized control of several northern provinces and forced the Saudi-backed government of President Abd-Rabbuh Mansour Hadi out of Sanaa...

French army says 30 jihadists killed in Mali

Source FRANCE 24

Forces belonging to France's Barkhane mission in Mali killed around 30 jihadists in the centre of the country, the French army headquarters said on Friday. Commando troops transported by helicopter and supported by fighter aircraft on Thursday evening fought "several hours of ground combat" near Niaki, 180 kilometres east of central town Mopti, ending in "the neutralisation of several dozen" jihadists, the armed forces said in a statement. Army spokesman Frederic Barbry told AFP that "around 30 members of an armed terrorist group" belonging to the Group to Support Islam and Muslims (GSIM) had been killed. Mirage fighter planes and Tiger combat helicopters had supported mountain commandos in the operation, Colonel Barbry added...

France says it has killed senior al Qaeda operative in Mali

Source FRANCE 24

French forces have killed Bah ag Moussa, a military leader of al Qaeda's North Africa wing, during an operation in northeastern Mali, Armed Forces Minister Florence Parly said on Friday. The former Malian army colonel, also known as Bamoussa Diarra, was a right-hand man of Iyad Ag Ghali, the leader of Mali's most prominent jihadi group, Jama'at Nusrat al-Islam wal-Muslimin (JNIM). The jihadist outfit has repeatedly attacked soldiers and civilians in Mali and neighbouring Burkina Faso. "A historic figure of the jihadist movement in the Sahel, Bah ag Moussa is considered responsible for several attacks against Malian and international forces," Parly said in a statement. Moussa, who was on the US terrorism list, was killed on Tuesday after a Spanish police said Friday they had arrested a "highly radicalised" young woman who was preparing to head to Syria to marry an extremist there. Officers detained the woman, a Spanish national who was not named, near the Mediterranean port of Valencia on Wednesday. Police did not give her age. She caught their attention after shifting from "a completely Westernised lifestyle" to wearing a niqab, a full-face Islamic veil, and "defending the more radical precepts of jihadism," a police statement said. In January, she travelled to Turkey, where she met with members of "extremist organisations" based in northeastern Syria and on return to her hometown of Cullera near Valencia she remained in contact with them. She also sent around 5,000 euros ($5,900)...

At least 20 shots fired at Saudi embassy in The Hague, no-one hurt

Shots have been fired at the Saudi embassy on the Koninginnegracht in the centre of The Hague, according to local media reports, but police say it is too early to give more information. Reports suggest the building was hit at least 20 times and that dozens of casings litter the ground. Police were alerted to the shooting shortly before 6am. No-one so far has been reported hurt. According to local broadcaster Omroep West, bullet holes can be seen clearly in several windows. Police and forensic teams are now at the embassy and part of the street has been sealed off while the investigation gets underway.

Morocco Launches Military Operation in Western Sahara Buffer Zone

CAIRO — Morocco has launched a military operation in a United Nations-patrolled buffer strip in Western Sahara, escalating tensions in the contested territory and threatening a fragile truce that has held in the region for almost three decades. Authorities in Morocco said on Friday that their forces had moved into the buffer strip, at the Guerguerat zone, following weeks of “provocations” from members of the Polisario Front, a pro-independence movement. Tensions in the region date to 1975 when Morocco annexed Western Sahara, a former Spanish protectorate that was also briefly occupied by Mauritania. For years, the Polisario fought for independence from Morocco in an armed resistance that lasted until 1991, when the United Nations
