Vienna terror attack: Isis claims responsibility for shooting rampage that killed four victims

Isis has claimed responsibility for the terror attack that left four victims dead in Vienna. In a propaganda statement, the group hailed the death and injury of 30 "crusaders" at the hands of a "soldier of the caliphate". Perpetrator Kujtim Fejzulai, who was shot dead by police during Monday night's attack, had pledged allegiance to Isis in an Instagram post hours before the rampage and used the name Abu Dujana al-Albani. The 20-year-old was jailed last year for trying to join the group in Syria but was freed in December, and deceived authorities by complying with a deradicalisation programme. Isis shared a video of Fejzulai swearing loyalty to its leader, Abu Ibrahim al-Hashimi al-Qurashi, in Arabic and smirking as he signed off...
